of a special assessment program for a group of TRG trainees. This program is tentatively scheduled to take place on the 25th and 26th of August and will involve approximately 17 assesseees. An additional planning meeting to be participated in by A&E staff members, plus

12. [redacted] has been scheduled for Thursday, 14 August. A planning conference participated in by [redacted]

[redacted] was held to draw up recommendations for a possible pre-testing program for BOC candidates. As a result of this conference, [redacted] has been charged with the responsibility of drawing up a prospectus for further consideration.

13. At the request of [redacted] of the Medical Department, [redacted] presented material relative to the former assessee who was returned to the States from an overseas assignment as a psychiatric casualty. It is interesting to note that the assessment findings in this case very clearly predicted the difficulties manifested by this man.

14. It should be pointed out that the assessment load per assessment psychologist continues to be a heavy burden professionally. At the present time the psychologists actively engaged in the production of assessments are [redacted]

[redacted] is charged with the responsibility of maintaining the special assessment load outside of the regular assessment site. This limits his productivity to not more than two cases a week, plus the numerous conferences related to scheduling the assessments and reporting on the assessments after their completion. This means that the three remaining assessment psychologists are averaging at least three assessments per week, which entails considerable scheduling of activities and limits the possibilities for re-planning the assessment process. At the present time we are scheduling assessments as far ahead as October and with the increased responsibilities entailed by accepting the TRG assessment program our professional personnel situation remains acute.

15. A monthly report including a detailed breakdown of assessment findings has been inaugurated and the July report is in preparation.
